

Photo of Admiral Forrest P. Sherman as he called on the White House

Description

Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, Chief of Naval Operations, had asked Congress for authority to start a Navy building and conversion plan costing about $335,000,000. Among the 112 vessels to be built would be four new type submarines including one driven by atomic power. Admiral Sherman is shown by a car as he called at the White House later that day. From: Beth Gore

Date(s)

April 25, 1950

Accession Number 99-1077

8x10 inches (21x26 cm) Black & White

Keywords Automobiles Naval officers

HST Keywords Ships - Submarine (atomic) - Ref. to

People Pictured Sherman, Forrest P. (Forrest Percival), 1896-1951

Rights The Library is unaware of any copyright claims to this item; use at your own risk.

Note: If you use this image, rights assessment and attribution are your responsibility.

Credit: Harris & Ewing Harry S. Truman Library & Museum.

Attention media: Please make note of this item's accession number. Print out this page and retain it for your permissions records before downloading this image file for possible publication. Library staff cannot sign permissions forms or provide additional paperwork. The Library charges no usage fees for downloaded images.